I agree with you. Seems to me slides are constantly changing and hard to work on them. I will wait till morning and we can discuss any alarming issue we do not agree.

I tried to make the changes we had discussed earlier today. However, the slides I was working on have been marked for deletion by other people who were also working on the presentation. Potentially, we can look through the presentation at tomorrow's meeting and see if we think all the points that we wanted made are still in the presentation, but it doesn't seem like it is possible to change the presentation in any permanent way. I'm a little concerned that at the DD briefing we may be asked to present slides that we may not agree with.
